For the past fourteen years, it has been Keith Miller's goal to actively pursue and execute through creative expression the most innovative, beautiful, usable and intimately relevant solution to any need for improvement in the quality of life as experienced in the interior environment by the individual, family, or community involved. Keith's skill, amiable nature, and meticulous attention to detail have afforded him exciting opportunities to participate in rewarding design projects. His award-winning creativity has attracted the attention of clients with a vast array of taste preferences and project requirements.

In 1993, Keith received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Housing and Interior Design from the University of Kentucky, a four-year design program accredited by the Foundation for Interior Design Education Research (FIDER). The program required each instructor to obtain a doctorate in the field of Interior Design, hailed professors who apprenticed under acclaimed design research specialists such as Bauhaus color theorist Josef Albers, and attracted guest instructors like Architect Michael Graves. In 1998, Keith passed the rigorous two-day qualification exam offered by the National Council for Interior Design Qualification (NCIDQ).

Keith and his wife, designer Beth Marie Miller, live and work in downtown Seattle, Washington. They have operated their own consulting business, Miller & Associates, since 1995. Along with an array of personal clientele, Keith has contracted his skills to his colleagues in both residential and commercial Interior Design.

"I love the uniqueness of each extraordinary individual I consult - and their kids, their pets, their messy offices, and interesting lives."
